After graduation, and if you intend to practise in New Zealand, you MUST register with the Board and hold an APC.

Registration with the Board is a one off process, whereas you will be required to renew your APC each year you are practising in NZ.

Please note: A criminal convictions record from the Ministry of Justice is required as part of your application for registration. It is recommended you apply for your record early as they can take up to 4 weeks to receive: for more information visit www.justice.govt.nz.

Required documents

- ✓ A certified copy of your qualification. A photocopy may be certified as a true copy by a solicitor, Notary Public, Justice of the Peace, or an Officer of the Court; and
- ✓ Two Certificates of Good Character (one professional and one personal)
- ✓ Evidence of name change if applicable; and
- ✓ A criminal convictions record that is no more than three months old; and
- ✓ A passport-style photograph signed and certified to be a true likeness of yourself.

The Board understands you will not receive your qualification certificate until graduation. The Board will process your completed application once confirmation has been received from the education provider that you have passed the course and qualify for graduation.

Once your registration has been approved you must apply to the Board for an annual practising certificate (APC) in order to be allowed to practise.
